Follow-up to the implementation of the International Year of Volunteers

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 60/134 of 16 December 2005 on the follow-up to the International Year of Volunteers,

Noting that the momentum created by the International Year has contributed to the vibrancy of volunteerism globally with the involvement of more people, from a broader cross-section of societies,

Recognizing that volunteerism is an important component of any strategy aimed at, inter alia, such areas as poverty reduction, sustainable development, health, disaster prevention and management and social integration and, in particular, overcoming social exclusion and discrimination,

Recognizing also that volunteerism makes significant contributions to development and that appropriate policies are needed to ensure that this potential is realized,

Acknowledging the existing contribution of the organizations of the United Nations system to supporting volunteering, and especially the work of the United Nations Volunteers programme around the world, and acknowledging also the efforts by the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies to promote volunteerism throughout its global network,

08-54268 (E) 091008

Bearing in mind the need for an integrated and coordinated follow-up to the International Year of Volunteers to be pursued in the relevant parts of the United Nations system,

1. Welcomes the report of the Secretary-General;[1]

2. Reaffirms the need to recognize and promote all forms of volunteerism as an issue that involves and benefits all segments of society, including women, children, young persons, older persons, persons with disabilities, minorities, migrants and those who remain excluded for social or economic reasons;

3. Recognizes the importance of supportive legislative and fiscal frameworks for the growth and development of volunteerism, and encourages Governments to enact such measures;

4. Welcomes the work of Governments, the United Nations system and other stakeholders to create a supportive environment for the promotion of volunteerism;

5. Takes note of the actions by Governments to support volunteerism and reiterates its call upon them to continue such action;

6. Acknowledges the importance of civil society organizations for the promotion of volunteerism and in that respect recognizes that strengthening the dialogue and interaction between civil society and the United Nations contributes to the expansion of volunteerism;

7. Encourages Governments to establish partnerships with civil society in order to build up volunteer potential at the national level, given the important contribution that volunteerism makes to the fulfilment of the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration;[2]

8. Welcomes the expanding involvement of the private sector in support of volunteerism and encourages Governments to support this trend;

9. Invites Governments to mobilize and support the research community globally to carry out more studies on the subject of volunteerism, in partnership with civil society, in order to provide a sound knowledge as a foundation for policies and programmes;

10. Recognizes that greater efforts are needed to ensure that climate change and the environment feature on the volunteerism agenda of Governments and the United Nations;

11. Calls for the relevant organizations and bodies of the United Nations system to integrate volunteerism in its various forms into their policies, programmes and reports, and encourages the recognition and inclusion of volunteer contributions in future United Nations and other relevant international conferences;

12. Reaffirms its recognition of the work of the United Nations Volunteers programme as the focal point for the follow-up to the International Year of Volunteers and requests it to continue to raise awareness of the contribution of volunteerism to peace and development, to act as a convener on the subject for the various interested stakeholders, to make available networking and reference resources and to provide technical cooperation to developing countries, upon their request;

13. Invites the Commission for Social Development to consider "volunteerism for development" in the context of its priority theme of social integration at its forty-seventh and forty-eighth sessions, in 2009 and 2010 respectively,

14. Decides that on or around 5 December 2011, the International Volunteer Day for Economic and Social Development, two plenary meetings at the sixty-sixth session of the General Assembly shall be devoted to follow-up to the International Year of Volunteers and the commemoration of its tenth anniversary, under the agenda item entitled "Social development";

15. Invites Governments, with the active support of the media, civil society and the private sector, as well as development partners and the relevant organizations and bodies of the United Nations system, to carry out activities focused on marking the tenth anniversary of the International Year of Volunteers, in 2011, at the regional and national levels;

16. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the General Assembly at its sixty-seventh session on the implementation of the present resolution, under the agenda item entitled "Social development".
